Objectives of the Florida Anthropological Society:

To provide a means for people interested in anthropology and archaeology in Florida and related areas to come together for mutual benefit;

To promote study of the peoples of Florida from ancient times to the present; to establish a code of ethics, rules of conduct, and standards of quality for this work;

To effect harmony and cooperation among amateur and professional anthropologists and archaeologists so that the work of all will enrich our knowledge of human history;

To bring to the attention of the general public and appropriate governmental agencies the need to preserve archaeological and historical sites in Florida as well as to record the ways of life of people in Florida and related areas;

To share information about anthropology and archaeology and especially the work of Society members through scheduled meetings and publications, and through special events and other activities which further the Society's objectives;

To assist in establishing exhibits and museums through gifts of materials or money; to encourage scientific collection, study, and publication; and

To maintain By-Laws, Rules, and Regulations to benefit Society members.
